Emerging Companies & Venture Capital	Trademarks

Kyle Straughan's practice focuses on business matters with an emphasis on assisting both established and emerging companies with intellectual property, privacy, corporate governance, and regulatory compliance. Kyle is a registered Patent Attorney with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. In addition, he regularly assists clients with trademark disputes, including proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. He has extensive experience counseling emerging companies, startups, and established businesses with creating, managing, and utilizing their intellectual property portfolios, staying ahead of the curve with privacy and data security compliance, and assisting clients with business and intellectual property licensing transactions.

Prior to joining Karr Tuttle Campbell, Kyle worked in-house for a reputable regional telecom company and he also practiced intellectual property law for two other Seattle law firms.
